“Equitable Healthcare Accessibility for California”
Since Governor Schwarzenegger took office in 2003, the Song-Brown Program has awarded more than $18 million in capitation awards to family practice residency training programs. The awards are funded by the California Health Data Planning Fund, which was statutorily established to receive and expend revenues in support of healthcare related programs. The funds are generated through annual fees collected from health facilities.

The Song-Brown program was established by the Health Care Workforce Training Act to increase the number of family practice physicians, family nurse practitioners, physician assistants, and registered nurses being trained in the state to provide needed medical services to Californians. More than half of the family practice physicians trained in Song-Brown funded programs practice in underserved communities upon completion of their Family Practice residency program.
